

British Flier
Runs Chinese
Railroad With
Rice And Coal

By HAL BOYLE
Hong Kong (AP)—There is only as thing more unpredictable than hinese currency, and that is a hinese railroad.
It has even more ups and downs. One of the better known stretches f it in the Far East is the Kowloon-anton railway, a 120-mile line hich in peace time used to net its ritish and Chinese owners better an $250,000 profit monthly.
It begins at Kowloon, suburban munity on the mainland across rom Hong Kong, and winds through rikingly beautiful valleys between gh-terraced mountains to old anton, one of the hearth stones of ient China.
In the ante bellum days it took ly three hours on a fair day and ear track to make the trip from owloon to Canton. Under Japanese mination this time increased to 6 hours. That is a fair measure of he efficiency of the Japanese col- nial administration.

End Of Long Line
At Kowloon is the terminus of robably the longest railway network in the world. You can climb aboard a train there and travel continuously o Brest, France, which is only five days by fast steamer from New York. Of course under present conditions ou would need a lot of stamina and sandwiches and at least a case of bottles of vitamin pills to come through that railroad journey alive.

The Kowloon-Canton railway is operating now, thanks to the enter- prise of a British naval flier from Will Shakespeare's old hometown. He is Lt. Peter Frank Morris, a Grumman Avenger pilot from the carrier Indomitable. He also has an Irish grin.

On his first day ashore Morris noticed there was no activity around the camouflaged Kowloon railroad station. It was strictly not his worry, but he scouted around and found three rusty locomotives which he thought might be induced to go to work. Then he rounded up 50 Chi- nese mechanics who soon had smoke puffing from the stacks with coal and wood Morris had scrounged. All this was done just out of Mor- ris' personal curiosity.

Takes Over Road
"Who runs this railroad?" Morris asked after reporting the situation to higher British naval authorities who have temporarily taken the job of putting the Hong Kong colony back on its feet until the civil ad- ministration can take over.

"You do," they told him. So Morris began piloting his first railroad.
I asked him what previous ex- perience he had in this line and this chunky British "Casey Jones" said: "None." When I asked him what he did in Stratford-on-Avon before the war he smiled and replied with great complacency: "Nothing at all."

But he said his 25-mile stretch to the Chinese border—where the re- sponsibility switches to a Chinese official—was in running order. His trains operate on schedule, that is, they get to the border and back the same day.

"I run the railroad on rice and coal," Morris said with a grin. "So far I have used 25 bags of rice to fill the Chinese workers and 20 tons of coal to fill the locomotives. We've hauled in 2,300 Japanese prisoners from the interior of the colony and delivered 310 tons of wood for Hong Kong power stations."

At present he is suffering from an over-abundance of labor. He re- ceived orders to hire back all former employes and so far 200 have shown up—more than he can use until he can round up more rolling stock.

I made a trip into the interior as a guest passenger along with a group of British Commandos in the line's only luxury car. It has cloth covered lounge chairs. The rest of the cars are ancient wood, shingled affairs with timber seats that date from the days when George Pullman was in knee pants.

Averts Crash

On the way back our brakeman—a barefooted, bald headed Chinese—dozed and we would have crawled into a closed switch and piled up half of Lieutenant Morris's rolling stock if the young officer had not given the alarm. The Chinese en- gineer halted the train only two feet from the switch.

Such near disasters don't worry Morris—now. He has learned that calamities always threaten Chinese lines. He is going to keep his rail- road empire intact even if he has to put his Grumman Avenger on the tracks to furnish the power.

Police Identify Driver Who Fleed

State police here said they will charge Harvey S. Miller, Jr., 161 S. 3rd street, Chambersburg, with reckless driving and failing to reveal his identity at the scene of an ac- cident as a result of a midnight crash Thursday in Bonneauville.

Ownership of the car which crashed into the fence in front of the S. J. Eck property in Bonneau- ville after going out of control on the sharp curve at the western edge of that town was traced through a license number.

Both the driver and a girl com- panion escaped injury.

ADOPT PUBLIC RELATIONS PLAN FOR HOSPITAL

With the objective of centering the interest of Adams countians on the hospital and its expanding fa- cilities, the board of directors of the Annie M. Warner hospital at the regular September meeting, Friday evening in the Nurses' home, voted unanimously to adopt a long-range public relations program.

The greater part of the session was devoted to consideration of a report carefully studied and drawn by a committee headed by Howard Musselman, Orrtanna, which de- veloped a program of public educa- tion to be carried out over the next several years.

The report also outlined new hos- pital services to be offered in the future, designed to make the insti- tution the county health center.

Several phases of the program are in anticipation of the comple- tion of the new addition to the in- stitution which will soon get under way, the money for which has been made available by the Musselman Foundation as a memorial to the late C. H. Musselman and Mrs. Mus- selman, of Biglerville.

Buy Equipment
In accepting the committee's re- commendations the board adopted a resolution thanking the members of the committee who in addition to Howard Musselman, the chairman, are C. P. Keefer, Biglerville; Ed- mund W. Thomas and Carl Baum, Gettysburg, and George Wilhide, Emmitsburg.

The subject was placed in the hands of the hospital executive com- mittee with instructions to collab- orate with the public relations com- mittee in planning the successive steps of the program and getting them under way.

The board authorized the pur- chase of rotating anode tubes as an addition to the new X-ray equip- ment of the hospital so that the services of that department can be enlarged.

Joseph E. Codori, reporting for the property committee, told of a num- ber of repairs and improvements made to the hospital buildings.

Reports for the months of May to August inclusive showed more than 200 patients admitted each month. In June the hospital accom- modated an average of 53 patients each day, one of the highest av- erages on record. During the other three months the average daily figure was around 47.

C. A. Bixler, president of the board presided. Others attending include:

Guy Stock, Bendersville; C. P. Keefer, Biglerville; Millard Stoner and John Brown, Fairfield; George Wilhide, Emmitsburg; Howard Mus- selman, Orrtanna; William Sneer- inger and Wilbur Bankert, Little- town; Dale Bream, Cashtown; Franklin R. ## DO NOT EXPECT APPLE BUTTER, CIDER ON MART

Only fresh cider and apple but- ter were lacking to make this morning's session of Farmers' mar- ket a typical fall business day. ## FAMOUS STORY TO BE STAGED HERE OCTOBER 8

Rip Van Winkle, delightful and legendary figure of Washington Irving's famous story, will play his way through fabulous adventures among the Kaatskill Mountains on the stage of the Majestic theatre, October 8 at 4 p. m., when the Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre of New York presents "Rip Van Win- kle."

Rip Van Winkle goes hunting in the Kaatskill Mountains for a deer to settle his long bill for lager and schnapps at Nicholas Vedder's Inn. The King George, Hilda, his wife, is forced to do Rip's work in the fields. A scene from "Rip Van Winkle."

kle" here under the sponsorship of the Woman's Club of Gettysburg. The proceeds go to the club's polio fund.

As a popular play in her organiza- tion's repertoire, Mrs. Major says she has adopted a tale that has been a favorite of children and grown- ups for years. Easy-going, lov- able Rip much prefers hunting and fishing to digging in the fields. And Dame Winkle, really not a shrew, but merely a distracted mother who wants her family provided for, has to drive him, with a sharp tongue, away from unproductive pleasure.

Momentous Changes

Meanwhile, momentous changes are taking place in the great world outside the little mountain village. Franklin has just given the English Parliament an ultimatum on the colonies' stand against the Stamp Act. And even the loungers around the King George Inn can gather that important events are in the making. So as Rip sleeps 20 years away, high up in the Kaatskills, the United States are born. Small wonder that he rubs his eyes on re- turning to the town he had left reticent under British rule, to find its politicians ranting against a Con- gress of which he had never heard.

Mrs. R. D. Wickerham, chairman of the committee on arrangements, reports a splendid response to pa- tron's tickets at $1. Adult tickets sell for 60 cents and student tickets are 35 cents.

SELLS FARM

C. C. Childs has sold his 93-acre farm together with stock, ma- chinery and crops, located in Mt. Pleasant township between Bon- neauville and Two Taverns, to Ar- thur H. Kindt, Butler township. The sale was made through C. A. Heiges.

Planes Lock Wings, Crash In Miami Business Section

Miami, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP)—Two navy planes, one apparently in dis- tress, locked wings and crashed into the heart of Miami's business dis- trict last night, killing two pilots and setting buildings ablaze in a two-alarm fire.

One of the planes crashed through the roof of the Tuttle hotel garage, struck down a wall of an adjoining hardware warehouse, and set fire to both structures.

Both planes were one-man single- engine night fighters from the Mel- bourne, Fla., training station. Names of the two pilots killed were not immediately available.

The warehouse was destroyed and the garage, used by the navy and coast guard, badly damaged.

The other fighter plunged to the street, ricocheted across a parking lot and smashed into the warehouse wall where it burned.

Less than a block from the crash and fire were an arena where a wrestling match with 2,300 specta- tors was in progress, recreation hall where bowling matches were being played by 125 persons, and a well- filled hotel.

Spectators on Miami Beach re- ported the troubled plane sputtered through the darkness low over crowded resort hotels, then disap- peared in the direction of Miami with four other planes buzzing around, seemingly attempting to lead it.

Some witnesses said one plane was afire in the air, but this was not substantiated.

ROLAND ORNER NOW IN ITALY

With the 15th Air Force in Italy, Sept. 22—Pfc. Roland E. Orner, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Orner, Gettys- burg R. 4, is now serving with the 533rd Air Service group in northern Italy. He has been overseas since January, 1944, and has been awarded the Purple Heart and cluster, Combat Infantry Man's badge and two battle stars. Prior to his service in the Air Forces he was in the 45th Division and saw action in the battles of Anzio and Southern France. He was employed by the Gettysburg Ice and Storage com- pany before entering the service.

The 533rd Air Service group un- der the command of Colonel Clyde C. Jakway of Beverly, Mass., was activated in Southern Italy in May, 1945, with its personnel being taken from many units of both the 12th and 15th Air Forces. Many of the men making up this new organiza- tion have behind them many months of overseas service in addition to many who have seen combat with the 5th and 7th Armies prior to their transfer to the Air Corps.

To these men were delegated the important task of keeping bombers and fighters serviced and ready to fly and the combat crews equipped with a never ending supply of ma- terial necessary to carry on the Army Air Forces' total war against the German war machine.

MOTOR CLUB IS URGING VOTERS TO VOTE "YES" ON AMENDMENT

Pennsylvania's part in the na- tional reconversion effort is defini- tely linked with its tour and travel business and its highways according to the Gettysburg Motor club.

"Because of its strategic, geo- graphical location as a resort area and vacation center, this State is actually more accessible to more motorists than any other state in the union. Our tourist trade is something which can no longer be listed among the by-products of the state, for it attained a gross, just before Pearl Harbor, of nearly $400,000,000 annually," a club spokesman said.

"This tourist trade had been built up largely because of the growth and improvement in Pen- nsylvania's highways. We have a $900,000,000 investment in our roads, and it is for that reason all of us are being urged to vote 'yes' for Amendment No. 1, the Good Roads Amendment, at the forth- coming November election.

Use Money on Roads

"We want to make sure that every dollar paid in for motor vehicle taxes and licenses, including gaso- line tax, is used for the repair, maintenance, safety, reconstruction and building of more and better highways and bridges. Every mile of good road we build automatically reduces the cost of car operation over the highways in a proportionate amount.

"Farmers are interested because their facilities for the receiving and shipping of products are increased by improved roads. Labor is inter- ested for approximately every dol- lar spent for highways includes about ninety cents of that dollar for the employment of labor.

"The Gettysburg Motor Club has already gone on record as endorsing the Good Roads Amendment, largely because we do not ever wish to see the time when essential road ap- propriations may be jeopardized or lost because of political maneuver- ing or diversion. One-third of the states in the nation have already protected their highway funds by an amendment to their constitu- tions. This Pennsylvania will do on November 6th."

HEALTH EXAM INSTRUCTIONS NOT RECEIVED

Harrisburg, Sept. 22 (AP)—More than half of Pennsylvania's first, second and third class school dis- tricts have set up approved pro- grams for the complete examina- tions of school children and teach- ers under the Commonwealth's new school health program.

John W. German, Jr., chief of the school division, said that approval of similar programs for many other districts is pending until additional data is supplied by local authori- ties to the Department of Health.

No action has been taken so far, however, in rural districts where ex- aminations will be set up by the department in cooperation with county school superintendents he added.

The Legislature appropriated $4,000,000 for complete medical and dental examinations of all school children every two years, starting with the first grade, as soon as the necessary equipment and personnel becomes available.

German said even many of the larger districts are hampered by the continued shortage of doctors, dentists and nurses adding that as a result some have been able to schedule only medical and in other cases, only dental examinations so far.

During the summer the Gettys- burg school board, handling the only third class school district in the county, made arrangements for the medical and dental examinations of Gettysburg school pupils. Dr. Raymond Sheely and Dr. J. J. Mun- ley are the examiners.

No steps have yet been taken to provide for the physical examinations of pupils in other county towns and in rural areas—all in fourth class districts under the supervision of the office of the county superin- tendent of schools.

County health and school officials say they lack instructions from Harrisburg.

Col. John S. Rice Is Lions' Speaker

Col. John S. Rice, who recently received his discharge from the Army Air Force after more than three years of service, will be the speaker for the Ladies' Night pro- gram of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at Mt. Joy Lutheran parish house. About 70 Lions and guests are ex- pected to attend.

Colonel Rice is a graduate of the AAF Intelligence school at Harris- burg and during his period of serv- ice made many transatlantic flights to inspect airfields on both continents and on island way sta- tions. His duties also took him into many continental cities.

Tokyo, Sept. 22 (AP)—General MacArthur today de- manded an accounting of all Japanese financial dealings from Pearl Harbor day to the present, including those of the imperial household whose chief tenant, the emperor, report- edly has no intention of abdicating.

A member of the royal family, Prince Fumimaro Ko- noye, said there was "absolutely nothing" to Washington hints that Hirohito would quit the throne.

Lt. Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japan's top military field com- mander, meanwhile went to work as usual at the Japanese war ministry despite an order for his "immediate arrest," issued by MacArthur yesterday but not immediately trans- mitted to either American or Japanese arresting officers.

Demobilize Naval Police Force

Two additional directives were passed on today to the Nipponese government, burdened with a heavy day of order- taking. One called for the arrest of Nobuyuki Abe, former governor-general of Korea, and the other demanded com- plete demobilization of the Japanese naval police force before October 31.

Vice Premier Konoie told correspondents that the con- stitution prohibits the emperor from abdicating, but he added that Hirohito might step down from the throne in event of illness. In that case, a regent would serve until Hirohito's death, then the crown prince would inherit the throne—the procedure followed in the case of Hirohito's father in 1924.

In addition to a report on the books of the emperor and the government, MacArthur asked for the amount of money held by banks, insurance firms and all other financial institutions, lists of directors and top executives of all firms dealing in big money, and lists of all their heavy investors.

The scientific section of the Al- lied staff needs the financial reports, headquarters officers said, to block, if necessary, use of Japanese money in a manner inimical to the ob- jectives of the occupation.

Wants U. S. Trade Chikubel Nakajima, Minister of Commerce and Industry in the Japanese cabinet, declared in an interview that his nation must re-es- tablish trade with the United States before even the bare essentials of life for its economy can be produced.

MacArthur's instructions on the demobilization of the Naval police superseded Japanese plans to keep 11,279 of the police on duty at the end of October until all arms are collected.

Naval police stores of arms and ammunition must be placed in cus- tody of civil police by the new order.

Meanwhile, the occupation pro- gram expanded at such a pace that the President of the Philippines re- luctantly complained it was respon- sible for a threatening relief crisis in his commonwealth.

The President, Sergio Osmena, messaged MacArthur from Manila that Army movements toward Japan have tied up docking space and truck transportation.

Take Over Naval Base

"I am sure," Osmena said, "you are desirous of doing everything in your power to prevent the civilian supplies situation in the Philip- pines from becoming critical even though it may temporarily slow up the implementation of military plans for the Japanese occupation."

Those plans called for the taking over today of Japan's naval base at Sasebo on western Kyushu by the U. S. Fifth Marine Division, heroes of Iwo Jima. Advancing elements of the Fifth Amphibious Corps oc- cupied the airfield at atom-bombed Nagasaki, 30 miles south of Sasebo, yesterday.

From another atom-bombed area, Hiroshima, came word that more than 100,000 Japanese in the pre- fecture were left homeless by the typhoon earlier this week. It added to the plight of a bomb-blasted nation which has been told her mil- lions must work out their own sal- vation.

(Ted Dealey, President of the Dallas, Tex., Morning News, said MacArthur told him during Dealey's recent visit to Japan "the Japs will have a hard enough time eating for the next 25 years, much less having the leisure and materials to build up for another war.")

MacArthur's new order for de- mobilization of the Naval police, like all MacArthur orders, auto- matically became a legal Japanese government order by a process just approved by the Nipponese Privy Council.

PEACE IN FAR EAST HELP TO WORLD UNITY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The vital and hotly debated question of how much military, naval and air strength shall be maintained in the Orient by America and her Allies—not only in Japan but in other strategic areas—isn't one which can be answered with any degree of security at this juncture.

Quite apart from defeated Japan, the whole Far East is in such a state of political ferment that it would take the seventh son of the seventh son of a major prophet to foretell what may be required. The only thing which can be said with assurance now is that the situation is highly explosive and that an upheaval in any one of several zones might precipitate trouble elsewhere.

If it were only Japan the Allies had to worry about, the position would be easier. But war's end has released over East Asia a Pandora's box of ill—with hope alone remaining. Political passions have been cut loose in numerous countries, and while any given situation perhaps might be handled easily by itself, the Allies must figure on the cumulative effect produced by some explosion.

China Big Factor
The most dangerous of all the cases—the threat of civil war in China between the Chinese Communists and the Nationalist government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek—happily is reported to have eased greatly in the past few days. The authoritative Chungking newspaper T'ung Pao announces that the government and the Communists have reached an agreement to cooperate, "on the basis of equal position" under Generalissimo Chiang for the reconstruction of China.

This means—if it is officially confirmed—that the government and the Chinese Communists have buried the hatchet and that there shall be no civil war. The whole world most earnestly hopes that this means a permanent settlement, for civil strife in China would be a tremendous threat to global peace. But I think we must remember that until the causes of the fever have been removed, it may recur. There's a wide rift between the Nationalist government and Chinese Communism. However, this latest news is encouraging.

Agitation In India
Meantime in India, with its 400,000,000, the political parties continue to agitate for independence from England.

The new Socialist government of Britain has moved promptly to implement its election promise of independence in the form of dominion status for that great sub-continent. French Indo-China wants its independence. Nationalism is on the warpath in the rich Dutch island of Java, as it is freed of Japanese occupation.

Thus Asia as a whole represents a situation that calls for maintenance of powerful and mobile Allied military strength. Not that one Ally intends to intrude militarily in the affairs of another, but there must be a safeguard against flames spreading from one country to others.

FIRE DESTROYS WORKSHOP HERE

Several hundred dollars damage was caused Friday night when fire destroyed a workshop, storage shed and chicken house on the Edward McSherry property, Steinwehr avenue, shortly after 9 o'clock. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

The two-story frame structure, covered on the walls and roof with tar paper, had been constructed recently by Mr. McSherry who said it housed about $150 worth of tools, his ladders, a $10 lawn mower he had purchased and placed there only on Friday and a flock of about 100 chickens, most of which were burned. He did not carry any insurance on the building or its contents.

The alarm was turned in by Mrs. John Baltzley, a neighbor, who first saw the flames. When the firemen arrived the whole building was in flames.

Richardson, employed on a Johnstown road construction job, is a negro, Truby said, and came here last January from Lancaster. The two men, Truby added, were in a nearby cafe a few minutes before the shooting. Two shots were fired, one going wild and the second entering Richardson's chest.

Supply Of Shotgun Shells Remains Low

Washington, Sept. 22 (AP)—Shotgun shells will continue in short supply until after the peak of the hunting season this fall.

Manufacturers are making shells in increased volume because of greater lead allotments, but can't get them to market in time to fire at this year's ducks.

But by December 1, a War Production Board official predicted today, supplies will be approaching normal. Current supplies are only about half normal requirements.

"Enough lead has been allocated to bring production to a high level," WPB said.

The agency saw only a "possibility" of easing in late fall the present limitation of eight boxes of ammunition to a hunter. Farmers, ranchers and trappers can get supplementary amounts.

PENNSYLVANIA DISPUTES MAKE 41,000 IDLE

(By The Associated Press)
A dozen or so industrial disputes kept more than 41,000 workers idle in Pennsylvania today.

Most of the differences of opinion concerned wages. The employees wanted more money.

Exceptional were strikes in four Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation coal mines in Washington county. There, the supervisory employees—foremen, mine bosses and so forth—were striking, after an NLRB vote, for union recognition.

The strikes were a resumption of the fight waged almost exactly a year ago in southwestern Pennsylvania and in West Virginia, when the UMWA-affiliated United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees of the mining industry took NLRB strike votes in several coal mines and struck a number of them for several weeks. The union failed to get recognition.

Affects Others

Although only a couple hundred supervisory employees were involved, their walkout yesterday shut down four J. and L. mines, provoked sympathy strikes at two other mines—after pickets had appeared—and made some 3,500 miners idle.

The formula was simple: Miners would not enter pits unless foremen made safety inspections, as required by law. The foremen were on strike—no inspections, no work.

The mines closed by pickets were Emerald of the Emerald Coal and Coke company at Clarksville and Crescent No. 1 of the Pittsburgh Coal company.

Other work stoppages in the western part of the state were: Westinghouse Electric corporation—"White collar" workers on strike for 13th day. Sharon plant closed, 6,919 idle; East Pittsburgh practically closed, 24,100 out; another 442 jobless at Derry and Nuttall.

Pressed Steel Car company, McKees Rocks—A walkout by CIO-United Steelworkers demanding a closed shop and $2 a day pay raise closed the plant, 3,000 idle.

Other Disputes
American Window Glass company—Walkout of 250 AFL-Glass Cutters in 10th day threatens to make 1,500 CIO workers idle, also, at Arnold and Jeannette plants. The AFL demands dismissal of a supervisory employee.

Jones and Laughlin Steel corp.—Three separate walkouts by 129 workers demanding incentive pay made 450 others at Alliquippa mill. One work stoppage ended. About 800 employees at the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt company's plant, out since September 6 in demand for pay for two V-J days, agreed to return to work and submit the issue to arbitration.

Indian Congress Rejects Proposals

London, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Working Committee of the All India Congress party rejected today new British proposals for India as "vague, inadequate and unsatisfactory," a Reuters dispatch from Bombay said today.

The report quoted the committee as saying "nothing short of independence can be acceptable to the congress and the country."

65,000 LOSE JOBS BECAUSE 10,000 STRIKE

By JAMES MARLOW

Detroit, Sept. 22 (AP)—The jumbled strike picture here must be confusing to people outside and inside Detroit.

In Detroit itself only about 10,000 people are striking. But because of the strikes, about 65,000 people have been laid off.

The reasons for the strikes vary. So do the reasons for the layoffs.

Take the strikes:

1. Some strikers want a pay raise and strike when they can't reach an agreement with the company; some want the company to recognize their union; some want discharged workers rehired.

2. Some strikes are of the wildest kind, without any authorization of the union leadership.

3. Some are strikes, which, if they don't have the open endorsement of union officials, very probably have their quiet approval and full sympathy.

The Lay-Offs

1. Thousands of non-striking workers in a plant are forced into idleness because the strike of a few hundred key men—like foremen—leave them without supervision.

2. Because of a strike in a factory which supplies parts to a big plant, thousands of workers in that big plant may be laid off.

Here are examples:
Five hundred foremen struck against the Hudson motor car company because of failure to get recognition of their union. Because there were no foremen, 6,000 non-striking workers were laid off.

Take the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company which makes wheels for the Ford cars.

Months ago the company fired 13 workers accused of throwing out two foremen. The case went to the War Labor Board. The board ordered all but three of the 13 re-instated.

Because those three didn't get their jobs back, 4,500 workers in Kelsey-Hayes went on strike. This was one of a number of strike-bound plants which had been supplying the Ford company with parts.

Because it couldn't get the parts it needs to keep up work, the Ford company said it had to—and did—lay off 40,000 people in its own plant.

The Kelsey-Hayes workers are members of a local union of the CIO's United Automobile Workers (UAW).

38 LATIN TO TAKE SPECIAL YANK COURSES

Lewisburg, Pa., Sept. 22 (AP)—Armed with a working knowledge of the "American" language and way of life, 38 Latin-American men and women split up today to pursue technical courses in 12 U. S. colleges and universities.

They were graduated yesterday from an intensive, eight-weeks course at Bucknell university's English language institute, which introduced into their course a great deal of extra-curricular activity to acquaint the southern visitors with American social customs, sports, family life, and technical methods.

Harry H. Pierson of the U. S. state department called them "unofficial ambassadors from the south," in a commencement ceremony.

"You are part of an extensive program of the nations in this hemisphere to put government on a human basis," Pierson told the group.

Advance Pan-Americanism
The good neighbor policy can not be effective unless our people know each other."

Kurt Poltizer, chemical engineer from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, spoke for the students in a valedictory address.

"What we are trying to do, is to know you in North America; to know each other in the Republic, and to advance Pan-Americanism," he said.

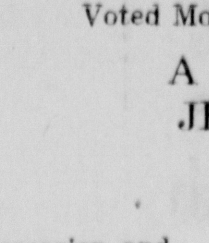

The students are going on to such universities as Pennsylvania, Harvard, North Carolina, Michigan, Texas, Tulane and Wisconsin.

FREE MEDICAL CARE

TODAY HAS BIG SCHEDULE FOR COLLEGE TEAMS

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—Football appears to be in for one of its greatest years from both a competitive and attendance standpoint as many of the big powers of the gridiron run full tilt into formidable opponents today on the first big Saturday of the season.

The championship season already was under way in the Pacific coast and southeastern conferences last night as mighty Southern California, Rose Bowl conquerors of Tennessee on New Year's Day, barely nosed out stubborn UCLA 13-6 before a huge 89,000 throng in Los Angeles, Coliseum, and the youthful Mississippi Rebels upset Kentucky's Wildcats 21-7 in Memphis.

A title fray is carded in the Big Ten with highly rated Michigan, victors over Great Lakes 27-2 last Saturday, playing hosts to Bo McMillin's mysterious Indiana team at Ann Arbor.

Conference Tiffs

Five other western conference stalwarts will swing into action. Bernie Bierman's Minnesota Gophers are favored to wallop Missouri at Minneapolis; a stong Marquette squad tangles with Purdue at Lafayette, Ind.; a veteran Illinois team collides with the green Pittsburgh Panthers at Champaign, Ill.; Wisconsin meets Great Lakes at the Sailors' home base; and Northwestern's inexperienced Wildcats face a dangerous Iowa State band at Evanston, Ill.

Oklahoma's Sooners, Bix Six titleholders, oppose the Honda (Tex.) Army Airfield Comets at Norman, Oklahoma, and in another inter-sectional fray, Texas Christians Horned Frogs, southwest conference champions, visits Kansas City for a night game with Kansas.

The top tilt of the east features Cornell at Syracuse with Ed McKeever, Notre Dame boss last season, unveiling his first big Red team. Villanova goes against Bucknell at Lewisburg, Pa., in the east's second attraction.

Duke's Orange bowl winners start after another southern conference crown against South Carolina at Durham, N. C., and Carl Shavely resumes operations in the south as he takes the wraps off his North Carolina Tarheels against the Camp Lee (Va.) Travellers. Virginia will get a full testing at Charlottesville from the scrappy Coast Guard Academy. Georgia takes on a soft touch in Murray (Ky.) State Teachers.

Buck Shaw makes his debut as California's head man in a toughie against redoubtable St. Mary's at Berkeley, Calif.

In the southwest Baylor plays West Texas, Southern Methodist battles Blackland Army Airfield, Arkansas encounters Barksdale field, Texas opposes Bergstrom field and Rice joins with Corpus Christi Naval Air.

Auto Racing Sunday At Williams Grove

Another record-breaking crowd is expected Sunday at the Williams Grove Speedway, 10 miles southwest of Harrisburg on Route 15, to witness the first big-car racing program on the half-mile oval since the war, when the daredevils of the roaring road will be expected to put on the Victory Championship races curtailed September 9, because of rain.

The fine field of drivers who showed up at the "Ascot of the East" for the previous race, all promised Roy Richwine, owner and operator, that they would return for the event. In addition to these drivers, a number of whom have earned their spurs at Indianapolis and on the nation's dirt tracks, others are expected to make their initial return to the speedways of America.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—Baseball, which celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1939, may be missing a bet by not staging another celebration tomorrow. . . . It was on September 23, 1945, that the Knickerbocker Club of New York drew up a set of rules, calling for nine-man teams, three outs to an inning and a number of other features that still stand. . . . Some experts claim these rules were the first that called for a diamond and bases instead of a square with posts marking the corners, despite the claims of Cooperstown and Gen. Abner Doubleday.

At least, tomorrow could be called the 100th anniversary of "organized" baseball. . . . Another Sept. 23 anniversary is that of Fred Merkel's famous "boner" of 1908, which led to the closest pennant race in major league history and the Cubs-Giants playoff for the National League pennant.

SPORTSPOURRI

Women can "bake" their way into Sportsman's Park next Friday for the Browns-Indians game—admission charge is a cake or cookies to be distributed among the armed forces. . . . No doubt the Browns would prefer something like last season, when they were cookin' on the front burner themselves. . . . The Philly Eagles' Steve Van Buren, whose ambition is to become the greatest all-time pro footballer, hasn't been out of training since last season. . . .

23rd Liquor Ration Period May Be Last

Harrisburg, Sept. 22 (AP)—Pennsylvania's 23rd whisky rationing period—the shortest and possibly the last since rationing began in 1943—opens Monday.

Customers of state stores will be able to buy a fifth of a gallon of rationed whisky in the next three weeks by presenting ration book three.

Chairman Frederick T. Gelder of the state liquor control board in commenting on the hopes of the board to remove all restrictions before the period ends recalled this quip of a former area: "Twenty-three, skidoo."

NATS' CHANCES OF LOOP FLAG GROW DIMMER

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
After what happened in the Yankee stadium, Ossie Bluege and Washington's 28 ball players are about the only folks convinced the Senators are still in the pennant race.

Staggering toward Philadelphia to wind up their season with three games against the Athletics, the Nats are 1½ games behind idle Detroit which has six to play. That isn't mathematical elimination but it's too close for comfort.

Neither contender has won a game since Tuesday and there have been no certain indications they are planning to snap out of it. Somebody had better grab one pretty soon or there will be a fine kettle of fish.

Outbit Yanks

Washington's weary players disappointed their well wishers in dropping both games of their bobtailed series in New York, losing yesterday 5-3 although they cuffed Bill Zuber for 12 hits. Zuber helped them along with six walks and a wild pitch but the Nats just couldn't do it although they rallied to tie at 3-all in the first half of the third inning after Nick Etten had given his room mate Zuber a boost with a three-run homer in the first inning.

Just for the record, Washington has found Philadelphia pretty much of a soft touch this season, taking 15 of 19 from the A's and the Tigers have swept 13 of 18 from the Browns.

All other clubs in the American were idle yesterday and only a two-night doubleheader in Philadelphia was listed in the National. The Dodgers lengthened their third place margin over idle Pittsburgh to two full games by grabbing both ends from the Cellarties, 1-0 and 11-5, behind Ralph Branca and Les Webber.

The Brooks now have won 16 out of 17 from the Phils, a domination bettered only by the Cubs' spell over Cincinnati.

HARSH CRIES ECHO IN HALL OF CONGRESS

By MAX HALL

Washington, Sept. 22 (AP)—Harsh cries and rumblings echoed in Congress Friday.

1. The unemployment pay bill—whittled down and finally passed by the Senate—seemed headed for more carving by the House Ways and Means committee.

2. A long and perhaps bitter debate will start Tuesday in the Senate over the "full employment" bill, designed to prevent future depressions. The Senate Banking Committee has okayed it.

3. Senate approval of Dean Acheson's appointment as No. 2 man of the State Department was postponed. Why? Because two senators angrily accused him of insulting General MacArthur.

4. Rep. Carl Vinson, Georgia Democrat, chairman of the House Naval Committee, hollered for the State Department to come up and explain its policy on Pacific islands which the Navy would like to use as bases. He wants testimony from the diplomats and probably next week.

Work Schedule

Neither Senate nor House was in session Friday. But committees were working as usual. Here is the work schedule of the House committee on ways and means:

Friday it met hoping to reach some final decision on what to do about the financial affairs of Elliott Roosevelt.

Monday it considers the unemployment pay bill.
Both Chairman Doughton (D-NC) and top-ranking Republican member Knutson (R-Minn) have declared that this bill would "promote idleness."

The Senate, before passing the measure, killed a provision for higher weekly payments to the unemployed. The bill now provides:

Federal cash to stretch the duration of state payments to 26 weeks for most unemployed workers (whether or not the state government wants this help); travel expenses for stranded war workers; unemployment benefits for seamen and federal employees; and return of the U. S. Employment Service to the states.

Tax-Cutting Bill

Some members of the Ways and Means committee said the group will go farther than the Senate and eliminate the 26-week provision. If this happened, the House would restore that or any other provision by voting it in. But the committee's decisions will have great influence.

Then—after disposing of the unemployment pay bill—the committee will plunge into the writing of a tax cutting bill.

The two senators who said Dean Acheson had reflected on General MacArthur were Chandler (D-Ky) and Wherry (R-Neb). They didn't like Acheson's statements along this line: That the government, and not any officer of the Army or Navy, will establish U. S. policy in occupying Japan.

INSIST DEWEY BE CALLED IN DEC. 7 PROBE

Washington, Sept. 22 (AP)—Republicans demanded today that Congress invite Thomas E. Dewey to tell whether he has reason to believe the high command was aware of Japan's war intentions hours before Pearl Harbor.

They also asserted that a joint Senate-House committee investigating the disaster must take a look at a letter Gen. George C. Marshall wrote the New York governor while Dewey was running for president last year.

Dewey has confirmed receiving the letter, but referred reporters to the chief of staff for its contents. The war department said Marshall was not available for comment.

(A Life magazine story says the letter asked Dewey to keep the secret that the United States had broken a Japanese code, because the Japanese still were using it.)

Salved Jap Code
(The story goes on to say that before the letter was written, Dewey had learned the U. S. had solved the Japanese "ultra" code. It adds that as a result President Roosevelt and the high command knew 15 hours before Pearl Harbor that the Japanese would break with the U. S., but did not know the exact place where the military attack would come.)

(Newsmen who traveled with Dewey recalled that during the campaign the candidate told some of them he had information on the Pearl Harbor disaster but was keeping it locked up in a bank vault in New York. He said then he believed disclosure of the information might adversely affect the war effort.)

Senator Bridges (R-NH) told a reporter the Joint Committee ought to study the Marshall letter. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), a committee member, said Dewey should be called before the group.

Wants All Facts
"Now that the war is over," Bridges declared, "there no longer can be any reason for concealment. Congress ought to have all of the facts."

Bridges expressed the opinion that Dewey could have been elected President if he had charged President Roosevelt with "failing either to forestall or mitigate an attack" and had backed it up with the letter as evidence of advance warning.

Senator Green (D-RI) poked fun at this idea. He wanted to know whether Dewey is being "revived." Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) of the inquiry committee had nothing to say immediately.

Chapter 17

Suzy was waiting for them in the lobby when they reached the hotel. She was wearing a white silk blouse and slacks and looked very cool and poised, but decidedly worried about something.

"A damned attractive girl," Gardner thought, as the three of them sat down at Suzy's table for their breakfast.

"Suzy's upset about something," Seth thought anxiously as he watched her.

"I'm frightened and I don't want these men to know it, but I want them both to stand by me—and be near—if—if trouble comes."

Suzy thought as she finished her order and found Gardner looking at her with a question in his eyes. Fear was a strange, new experience that Suzy had never faced before.

"You are wondering why I called you at two this morning," she tried to make her voice sound casual. "I thought I had a lead on where the dossier might be—now all of that is unimportant."

"And all of that is not the exact truth," flashed through Gardner's mind, for he knew she was struggling with an impromptu excuse, keeping the real reason for her telephone call to herself "and if she makes up her mind to keep silent she is the kind of a girl who will not change her mind and talk."

"You've heard then about the dossier?" Seth exclaimed excitedly. "It's great news. I haven't examined the contents, but Potter didn't have a chance to get away with it, and I'm sure everything will be intact. Just as it was handed to him."

"You can thank Cobo for that," Gardner observed quietly. "That little guy may slip up on routine police analysis some times, but when it comes to getting hold of the local situation, he's good. I think Cobo knew where he was hiding last night. He probably discovered him before I did."

A swift look of concern flashed over Suzy's face. Gardner noticed a tightness about her mouth although she managed to smile faintly.

"You mean Cobo's good at getting facts—information about people," her voice faltered, but the waiter was back with their order and she turned abruptly to give him instructions about the way she wanted it served.

But breakfast was only a brief prelude to a very disturbing day. When they reached the morgue, they found Cobo and Dr. Waldo in the middle of a medical discussion. Scattered papers, a pistol, a shapeless bullet on a piece of cotton, a small camera and the dossier were on a pine table in the tiny office with white washed walls just outside of the morgue.

With eyes only for his brief case, Seth rushed over to the table.

"May I have it now?" he asked, trying to keep the mounting excitement out of his voice.

Cobo nodded. "We are through with it. You take it—and keep it."

"By God, I will!" Seth exclaimed fervently. "This is going to New York today by plane, with or without me. Never again will I leave it unprotected for a single second!"

"Okay?" Gardner asked after minutes had passed while Seth worked with feverish haste. At last Seth sat back and drew a deep sigh of relief.

"Nothing is missing. Phew, that was a close shave!"

"And the end is not yet," Gardner said in a low voice.

"What do you mean by that?" Seth demanded sharply.

"Well, figuring it one way. Your dossier played a vital part in the murder of two people. Perhaps if you and your dossier had never come to the Casa Linda, Dolores and Potter might be alive today."

A sudden, heavy silence blanketed the small room. Cobo and the doctor stopped talking and looked curiously at the two men.

"I say, Gardner. That's putting it a little strong. After all I—"

"I know. Life has a way of cracking down on unsuspecting people. Some one takes a wrong turning and things happen too fast. Oh, I don't mean you, Peabody," he smiled as he saw surprise give way to angry silence in the man on the opposite side of the table. "I just wanted to call your attention to the fact that getting back your dossier is not the end of this case, not by a long shot."

"Your right," Cobo spoke with an ominous tone in his voice. "Today I find pistol—now I find person who shot pistol."

Gardner and Seth leaned over the weapon, looking at it curiously. "You can pick it up," Dr. Waldo announced briefly. "There were no finger prints on it. They have all been wiped off."

"Where did you find it?"

"Cobo picked it up at the corner of Flieger and Reynolds. Some one had tried to stuff it down the sewer. But the sewer was clogged with leaves and a part of the muzzle of the gun was sticking up from the debris. The sun caught it right as we were passing—Cobo saw the glitter of sun on metal."

"Good work—good eyes—I should say!" Gardner smiled his approval at the chief of police, who flushed a little at this unexpected praise.

"And this bullet—"Gardner pointed to a shapeless hump of lead lying on the table near the pistol.

"That we found under Potter," Cobo explained. "No one can tell yet. Bullet may not be fired from this gun. Must be sure."

Gardner turned to Dr. Waldo. "Have you officially established the time when Potter was shot, Doctor?"

"Yes. I told Cobo he was shot last night at nine o'clock. He has reported this to Delgado who will fly from Miami at once to take over. He should be here this afternoon. Two cases for a coroner in three days. That's certainly a record for Key West!"

"I wonder, Doctor, if you'd mind if I asked a few medical questions?"

"Of course not. The county pays me to answer questions. Fire away." The doctor was obviously bored. It was Cobo who suddenly startled them by jumping excitedly to his feet, shouting:

"Hombr de Dios! Se me antoja. That is what I want. Questions, questions, questions! It is about blood stains—blood stains. Something I not understand."

Today's Talk

MAN'S GREAT BENEFACTORS
The Creator lavishly distributed his gifts to man through Nature. Wherever the eye is focused, there is to be seen some treasure of His handiwork. Upon the surface of the earth, and deep below it, are to be found element of his life, his sustenance, and His joy in the beautiful.

Each one of these endless creations has become a benefactor to man. But none more than the beautiful and almost endless variety of trees that are scattered all over the surface of the globe. Scores of books could be written about trees, and yet the full information about their usefulness and essential good would still remain open as unrevealed.

Trees are among man's best friends, living out their silent lives, creating and recreating themselves for his glory and happiness. They give to him his homes, fuel for his warmth and the cooking of his food in many instances. They give him his reading matter in the form of newspapers, magazines and books. They furnish his home with beautiful designs of furniture. They are the guardians of the soil that give to him all the products of his food. They furnish his grounds and his towns and cities with abundant shade. They are the protectors of his domestic stock.

These trees, so generously distributed for man's benefit, have human qualities. They breathe. They have a circulatory system quite like his own. They spread out their arms in benevolent fashion, like the wings of the mother hen, warming and protecting her brood. And in every variety of tree is to be seen a distinct personality in leaf, branch, and form structure. And to him who would understand trees they almost talk! Certainly they have a language of their own, for all lovers of trees communicate with them in silence. The White Birch, the Maple, the Oak, the Elm, the Pine, the Hemlock, the Tulip, the Locust, the Horse Chestnut, the Dogwood, the Willow, the Walnut, the Poplar, the Cypress, the Cedar, the Palm, the Hickory, the Magnolia, and the Sycamore, just to name a few of the more familiar trees—what an array of beauty and variety! And each one put to so many useful purposes to add to man's many enterprises and to increase his happiness. What benefactors!

Engine a "Pumper?"

When an engine develops high oil consumption the usual guess is that its rings have worn to the rattling stage and that oil goes pumping past them as it would past anything that offered little resistance. The truth of the matter is, however, that in many cases of high oil consumption the rings actually are in such condition that they block the movement of oil. Take the case of oil control rings which are supposed to let a certain amount of oil pass to the walls and then wipe it off and neatly pass it back to the crankcase. Suppose these rings are badly choked with carbon or just plain gums? Isn't it logical that they will then fail to scrape oil from the walls and return it to the crankcase? That means pumping in a big way.

Helps Check the Choke

Do you know how to tell when the engine is overchoked and when it is underchoked?
During overchoking the engine will lunge and gallop. It will act logy and somewhat mixed up. There will be black smoke from the rear. It won't idle smoothly and won't pull properly.

Underchoked it will spit back through the carburetor. It will lack power. It will stall easily. It won't start briskly.

On many cars you can work the choke arm by hand and thus determine whether the automatic control is at fault.

From Error to Fact

Pollyanna must be working in Gasoline Alley these days for out of a mistake in one of these oversimplified lessons in how cars function there is a real idea that anyone can use to advantage. "Sticking brushes in the generator," reads the dizzy dope, "can play hob too with the vigor of the starter." The author of this choice bit then goes on to tell how to free up sticky starter-motor brushes, showing clearly that he did not mean to mention the generator in connection with the starter. But here's the Pollyanna side of it: There IS a connection between the two. If generator brushes are sticking there won't be normal charging. The battery will be weakened, and the starter-motor will be as sluggish as if its own brushes were affected.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"Many motorists who do valve work for the first time are a bit skeptical of the need for using what is known as a valve spring compressor tool. They feel that they can jimmy the valve springs out without much ado and replace them with equal ease. I'm not here to argue, but simply to present a simple fact with regard to these springs. Checking the pressures of the valve springs on one car I find that they stand at 43 pounds when the valves are closed, 116 pounds when the valves are open. The pressure of the valve springs of another make of car are 125 to 135 pounds when the valves are open. That's no pressure for a screwdriver or other substitute for a real compression tool. And so long as we've gone this far may I remind you that if tension is more than 10 per cent less than factory specifications a valve spring is too weak and should be replaced."

No Opportunity to Waste

Here's something you may not have considered, now that gas pumps are squirting out higher octane gasoline again:

The engine of your car naturally will begin to run better. In fact, there may be so much less ping and poor warming up that you will be tempted to call off some of the service work you planned to have done. The risk in this is that the engine still needs service. What you would be doing is to forfeit the full advantages of better gasoline—a real sacrifice at a time when your car would greatly benefit by the helping hand of improved fuel. Engine servicing, plus high octane gas, make a real combination of improvement. Don't throw it out the window.

Handling a Blowout

The thing to remember when a tire blows out or goes flat suddenly is to get complete control of steering. This will call for a very tight grasp on the steering wheel, even to the point of pressing your body weight against it. Once you have control of the wheel and can keep the car running in a straight course, in spite of the drag to one side or the desire of the rear to sway, you are ready to start applying the brakes, but not until then. If you apply the brakes first you'll simply spoil your chances of controlling the car. Rapidly reaching the time of the year when overcooling plays hob with the engine it is apropos to note that the motor thermostat should be one of the first things to consider when preparing for the colder weather ahead. As a matter of fact, the thermostat may be more useful on many engines in the fall than in dead of winter because in the latter the car may be stored in a well heated garage. You can test the thermostat yourself with the aid of a pan of hot water and a bath thermometer. Unless it closes fully when the engine's coolant is cold a lot of steam will blow down past (Please Turn to Page 5)

Sighs and tears were all in vain.
Happy angels came and took her.
From this weary world of pain.

She has gone where earthly sorrows,
Will worry her no more.
She has gone to meet her loved ones
Upon the other shore.

She has left us here to follow.
When all our troubles cease,
Until we meet in Heaven
Dear Martha, rest in peace.
By Mrs. William Arentz.

MONDAY and TUESDAY
"A Bell for Adano," the eagerly awaited 20th Century-Fox filmization of John Hersey's Pulitzer prize-winning novel, starring Gene Tierney, John Hodiak and William Bendix, is scheduled to open Monday at the Majestic theater.

The story of an American who came in a jeep to a bomb-blasted town and saw a people without laughter and a woman without hope, and of how he conquered their fears with his courage, and her heart with his arms, blazes with superb drama, glorious romance and matchless emotion.

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY
When identical — and beautiful — twins change places in order to bring their parents together again, and neither the parents nor the girls' own boy friends realize what has happened, you have the outline for a hilarious comedy. And that's just what "Twice Blessed," the new M-G-M feature at the Majestic theater, Wednesday and Thursday, is: a laugh session from beginning to end.

Featured in the film are Preston Foster and Gail Patrick as the parents in the case, and those wonderful Wilde Twins, Lee and Lyn, who gave Andy Hardy "blonde trouble" and are now giving their boys friends, Marshall Thompson and Jimmy Lydon, sweetheart trouble.

A second full length attraction will be "The True Glory," a true film of Gen. Eisenhower's drive across Europe.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

Betty Hutton, who portrays Texas Guinan in "Incendary Blonde."

The most promising musical to emerge in a long time from Hollywood's production beehive is "Incendary Blonde," so it's told. This is the technicolor special streamlined particularly for Betty Hutton.

The Blonde Blitz is at her best portraying Texas Guinan around whom the story revolves, for Betty might be called the modern Guinan. Texas, of course, is the gal who reigned as queen of the night clubs in the roaring twenties.

Co-starring with Arturo de Cordova, and supported by an outstanding cast, including Academy Award winner Barry Fitzgerald, Betty Hutton, as Texas, shines as a star of musical comedy, western movies and the night clubs.

Shade Trees Demand Care

Shade trees, both privately and publically owned, show many evidences of neglect during war years. Unfortunately this is one of the innumerable penalties man must pay for the privilege to wage war, but it is a penalty which can usually be reduced in severity if citizens do not continue their neglect too long. There are, in fact, many little tasks in tree care which should be completed before winter.

Foremost among evils leading to the loss of valuable shade trees, particularly costly and regrettable along town and city streets and in public parks, but also widely prevalent in private lawns, is the in-defensive practice of allowing pruning stubs to remain and introduce fatal decay into tree trunks and large limbs. It cannot be repeated too often that Nature is unable to heal over a tree stub. In every instance where a limb is removed from a tree, especially if it is large, the cut should be made parallel with and close to the parent body. "Parallel with and close to"—these words should be drilled firmly into the minds of all who go forth with pruning saws to prune shade trees or correct broken branches which require pruning repair work. Tree owners who discount the seriousness of old stubs in causing tree decay may easily obtain convincing proof by observing the defects of the next 100 falling trees they examine.

Wounds left by storms and accidents seldom heal without man's assistance. Broken branches must be removed and rough bark edges of abrasions trimmed and smoothed. All wounds, including those left from corrected stubs, must be disinfected and then sealed with a coating of white lead paint or wound dressing. Tree wounds are little different from those in human bodies. Decay-causing bacteria enter at once; the tree begins a fight to overcome the bacteria and at the same time set up its natural process of healing. A tree surgeon's problems and tasks are amazingly similar to those of the family physician and surgeon.

The United States Department of Agriculture recently issued a new publication on shade tree care, covering the neglected subject of tree saving where surrounding grounds are lowered or filled in. It
